MONEY BREAKTHROUGH COACHING

FIND YOUR GLOW!

Sacred Money Archetypes®

Accumulator - your inner banker

Does it feel like 'caution' could be your middle name when it comes to money?! That's because the Accumulator is your number 1 archetype! You have a natural respect for money and actually have quite an emotional connection to it. You are probably pretty good at, and also comfortable with detailed financial transactions. You are quite likely to have savings or be someone who lives below their means. You probably like to think twice, maybe thrice... before committing to spending anything! For accumulators who do part with their money, it's usually on things that can be bought in the sale or on a special offer - you love to feel you got good value, and made a saving!

You are a really conscientious and disciplined person with a brain for detail (perhaps even working with money somehow!). You love to 'dot the i's and cross the t's' and due to that, might end up being the 'go-to' person when others need a proofreader! You likely have a natural hesitancy & cautiousness that can apply to many areas in life. You might potentially find comfort in life from the things you accumulate, which could be as simple as savings in the bank, your own personal collection of antiques, or even just having plentiful supplies of your favourite food in the cupboard! You see the value in things - in a society that can be a bit 'throwaway', this is a real gift that you can inspire others with.

Be aware that you have the potential to become so frugal and tight that you effectively suffocate your own freedom and happiness - and you may not even realise you're doing it. It can become so uncomfortable for you to spend money that it almost starts to feel painful. Perhaps you can think of spending money as a muscle you need to flex every now and then to stop it from seizing up! It's also worth being aware of your tendency to procrastinate and shift your own goal posts e.g. 'I can only start my business when I have xx amount of money in the bank'...then when that goal is reached you start telling yourself it's not quite enough! It mostly stems from a lack of confidence and fear of failing. Ask yourself - isn't the biggest failure to never even try?!

I would love to work with you to talk more about you and your Sacred Money Archetypes®! Knowing your top 3 types can be a crucial step in moving towards the life of your dreams. A dream life happens when you live in harmony with your values and who you really are. Together we can figure out how to play to your strengths and navigate around your challenges, releasing old unhelpful beliefs and attitudes that may have been holding you back and setting you on your own personalised positive path to real and lasting success and happiness. Sound good? Book a Sacred Money Archetypes reading with me here and I'll look forward to meeting you!

With love,
